Little people

I am a very small person. Sometimes people call me a dwarf or a midget. I don’t like that because it makes me think of clowns in a circus or dwarfs in fairy stories. Many of the dwarfs in stories are either evil or stupid and I don’t think I am evil or stupid! The other day I heard a young girl say to her father:

“Dad, look at that little lady.”

I liked that and thought that it was a fine description of me. I was pleased that she spoke of me in such a respectful manner.

I expect that I am shorter than you are, even though I am old enough to be your mother. I am less than one and a quarter metres high! It took a while for me to get used to my height... I am not ashamed of it even though I used to feel quite out of place. My mum and dad are tall people and so is my brother. I struggle to do everyday things...like reaching to get something out of a high cupboard or driving a car, but I believe if I put my mind to it I can do anything!

I know I cannot blame anyone for the way I am. Something must have gone wrong before I was born which stopped me from growing properly, so I shall never grow taller. I am proud of who I am. People like me are very rare. I realise that if a have a positive attitude I can achieve anything, no matter what my height or my age is. It is my passion to help other people with disabilities and I try to do it every day. I have started a group where we can come together once a week and share our stories and how we experience life, I have made great friends through doing this and I know now that each life has a purpose!
